How can we create a reimagined, relaxed space beyond the cubicle that inspires genius ideas and increases productivity? PLY PROJECT directly addresses this challenge. By transforming the physical layout of the conventional workplace, we become more relaxed and poised to perform at optimum productivity levels. Our design approach also re-evaluates the role of man-made wood products such as plywood, improving and diversify its material capabilities for designers and architects. By fusing traditional plywood material with the latest production and design technology, we can transform any workspace into a more inspiring and intellectually stimulating environment.
